

Letter from Alexander Graham Bell to Sarah Fuller, January 25, 1905

1331 CONNECTICUT AVENUE, WASHINGTON, D.C. January 25, 1905. Miss Sarah Fuller, Horace Mann School, 178 Newberry St., Boston, Mass. My Dear Miss Fuller:—

My son-in-law, Mr. Gilbert H. Grosvenor, is writing the story of the telephone and of my early life in Boston. I know you must have a lot of my letters during 1872 – 1877. Would you be willing to send them on to me for a few weeks so that I may have copies made of them? I will then return them to you.

If you have any newspaper clippings relating to my work for the deaf, or on the telephone during this period, will you kindly send them also, to be copied and returned?

Mr. Grosvenor also desires to secure illustrations, photographs, etc. of the period and if you have any such, he would like to borrow them for a few days to have copies made.

Yours very sincerely, Alexander Graham Bell
